Introduction

It's the middle ages, and you are peacefully minding your own business watching moss grow on the sides of large rocks. (In other words, you're bored beyond belief.) Casually eavesdropping on a Council meeting, you hear about a sinister presence which has invaded the castle on the outskirts of town. Something has created a magical field which is causing the dead to come back to life!!! (Pretty gross, huh??) Evil cackles and moans of agony have been heard from the bowels of the Castle, and no traveler is safe anymore on the roads at night.

As if things weren't bad enough, you overhear one last piece of conversation among the Town Elders, "There is no time to waste. The evil talismans must be located and destroyed. If the spirits are not released quickly, they will mass an army of the Undead and overtake the town."

Hmm... The thought of an Undead person making mincemeat out of you doesn't grab you. Taking matters into your own hands, you creep through the graveyard on your way to the Castle. Half chewed arms and skulls with gnashing teeth attempt to stop you. With every twist and turn diabolical scenes greet you. But then you did say you wanted adventure, didn't you?

Operating Instructions for your Controller Pad

Start Button: Begins the game and acts as PAUSE during game play.

Select Button: Not used during Chiller.

A Button: Fires your Magic Wand at either Talismans or Spirits. You can get RapidFire by simply continuing to hold down the A button.

B Button: If held down simultaneously with the A button this will speed up the targeting crosshairs.

Control Pad: Press the pad UP several times when at Level One to bring the Crosshairs onto the screen. The targeting crosshairs will respond to your slightest touch either Up, Down, Left or Right.

Chiller Tip: Try to target in the CENTER of a spirit to release their energy and get points.

Player Options

Chiller is designed for either one or two players; using either Controller Pads or Light Guns.* This means that you and your friends are not limited to any set way of scoring points; but can use inputs interchangeably. Here are several options which will work with the Chiller game cartridge:

- 1) One Player with One Controller Pad.
- 2) One Player with Light Gun.
- 3) Two Players with Controller Pads.
- 4) Two players: one with Controller Pad, one with Light Gun.
- 5) Two Players with Light Guns.

*For installation of your particular Light Gun into your Nintendo® System please refer to your specific manual. In the following we will outline general configuration information.

If Using One or More Light Guns

- 1) Try to keep within 3-4 feet of your screen. This, however, can be adjusted depending on how big your TV screen is.
- 2) The Television must have its contrast and brightness levels adjusted properly for your Light Gun to be most effective. If not, shots may miss in Chiller. If you are having problems with your Light Gun try standing closer to the screen first, then gradually move back. This will tell you your TV's correct playing distance.
- 3) Two people can play with Light Guns. Make sure that both guns are inserted correctly into the Game System. Player 1 will be able to start the game by pulling the trigger. Chiller will register each person's score individually.

If Using One or More Light Guns

Number of Players: Use the SELECT button to choose between One or Two players here. The UP and DOWN arrows on the Control Pad will move you between selection lines.

Light Guns Used: Use the SELECT button to choose between ONE, TWO or NONE here.*

Start: When you are ready to play the game, choose this line and press the START button (or pull your Gun's trigger).

*If you are using two Light Guns, simply point at the selection and pull the trigger: the game will automatically cycle through your choices. Remember that you have to choose either ONE or TWO if you are using a Light Gun, if you choose NONE the game will expect that you are using Controller Pads.

Talismans

There are a total of 32 Talismans which have to be discovered to complete the game and move into the next round. There are 8 talismans on each of the 4 levels. To the right you will see small pictures which are clues to the talismans' appearance.

As you discover and destroy a talisman the picture will disappear from this scoreboard, and reveal more of the message hidden underneath. Remember, you must find ALL of the talismans before you can progress into the Hidden Level.

If you do not find all the talismans on a particular level the game will go on, but get harder each time you return to a level. So your first few times through the game keep track of where talismans are, and destroy them quickly before time runs out.

Level One: The Graveyard Outside of the Castle

This is where it all began. As you come upon the Graveyard, you feel the ground below your feet shake as skeletal hands erupt directly in front of you. Grasping your Ward with both hands you flee as quickly as possible at the outstretched hands. But even more start coming at you. Off in the distance you hear the tolling of the Castle bell, and notice a hunched over woman wheeling something towards you.

Monster Meter: This tells you how many spirits and ghosts have to be eliminated before the timer runs out. Talismans count as points on this Meter; so remember you can eliminate all the spirits and still have not found all 8 talismans on this level! If this happens, you will have to return to this level and eliminate the spirits again. The talismans, however, will remain destroyed until the end of the round.

Timer: If the timer runs out before the Monster Meter reaches zero the game is over.

Player One/ Player Two: This is where your running score is kept. The score will remain until you turn off your machine.

Ectoplasmatic Tabulator: This appears if you successfully finish off all the monsters on this level! The Tabulator will give you points for time remaining on the timer which will be added to your score.

The Hallway inside the Castle

Gasping for breath you stumble into the Castle itself! As you open the doors into the castle proper you see a scene no one has seen before. Floating in front of you are the ghosts of the previous inhabitants of the castle. They appear to be dazed and confused (probably because they are dead...Too bad no one has told them yet). A ravenous dog growls at you from behind a dark archway. Below your feet you feel as if something is trying to knock its way up through the floor. You realize you have found the second obstacle in your quest.

The Basement of the Castle

As you come down the stairwell after passing through the hallway you hear the moans of tortured and trapped spirits. Below you is a room with a river of Red flowing down the center. It looks like the previous inhabitants of this Castle were using this room for devious and evil purposes. Rats skitter by your feet and an agile enemy attempts to thwart your plans. This is the third obstacle in your quest: success will depend on releasing these poor, trapped souls. (Did someone mention an Alligator with a fondness for Evil souls left 'hanging' around???)

The Inner Sanctum

You have found the final level. Before you are the three remaining evil spirits. But they will not go easily; they must be removed piece by piece (good thing you are a sharpshooter by now...). Oh yes, and let's not forget the heads on the bookshelf.

If you successfully find all 32 hidden Talismans within the game you will be teleported into the hidden level, which is located on the hill overlooking the Graveyard where it all began. Here speed and marksmanship are key. This is the final mad dash of the evil spirits as they attempt to flee the castle. Shoot them quickly; once three spirits escape, the first step in your journey will be over.

Epilogue

Sighing in resignation you watch the last spirit flee from your Crystal Wand's aim. However, the wand is still glowing in your hand?

"Fool! You listened to those idiots in the village. The spirits are still gathering and nothing can get rid of them, especially you! They are back and even more powerful than before. And this time they're ready for you..."

The face disappears and you find yourself back at the graveyard. Gathering your courage you prepare for the next onslaught.

How long can you really last???
